GIRL POWER!
HOUSTON HOUSING AUTHORITY HOSTING GIRL EMPOWERMENT CAMP THURSDAY
Housing Authority teams up with Girl Scouts to empower hundreds of girls

HOUSTON—From Shakira to Michelle Obama, strong women are great influences on their communities and society. Dozens of girls will learn today at a Houston Housing Authority girl power camp how they too can make a difference.

From the importance of doing good things for others to learning about nature, girls from the Housing Authority will participate in esteem-building activities at a girl empowerment camp led by the Girl Scouts of San Jacinto Council.

The camp at Oxford Place is one of three camps hosted at Houston Housing Authority communities across the city this summer.

“We are grateful that the Girl Scouts have partnered with us to show these young girls that they have the power to do great things with their lives,” said Timothy Seckinger, Interim President and CEO of the Houston Housing Authority.

The Houston Housing Authority provides affordable homes and services to more than 55,000 people throughout Houston. The agency and its affiliates own and operate 25 housing communities with more than 6,500 units for families, elderly and other residents.
